

Paulsboro Day 2017

A view from above — Paul Goodman of the company, Party Delaware, greets visitors on stilts.

A double celebration — With this year's theme spotlighting the Paulsboro Refinery's 100 years of operation, Paulsboro Day featured a large display of refinery memorabilia, along with good food and fun for all. Representatives from PBF Energy, the company that owns the refinery and is headquartered in Parsippany, are among the more than 1,500 people who attended Paulsboro Day this year. They include, left to right, Paulsboro Refinery Manager Steve Krynski, PBF Energy Deputy General Counsel Art Warden, and PBF Energy Vice President of Corporate Communications Mike Karlovich.

Fun and games for all — At right, Paulsboro Day attendees Hailey Loughlin, left, and DJ Loughlin, right, receive instructions from Party Delaware comic juggler Kelly Kutch, center.

Outdoor fun — At right, Devina Zeilman of Paulsboro enjoys the bubbles at this year's annual community celebration held at Rastelli Field on Sept. 9.

In the photo below, Daivon Davis of Sicklerville rides a horse guided by trainer Tashyra Wallace.

Photos by Teresa Colanero